Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 02 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy start, otherwise dry with some sunshine today.

Today:
A little drizzle across the east and over Northern Isles at first, otherwise another dry, settled day across Scotland. Best of sunshine in the west with stubborn areas of cloud in the east.

Tonight:
Dry this evening, some late brightness in the west. Low cloud and a little drizzle spreading westwards overnight, some parts of the west remaining clear.

Friday:
The east will be cloudy and rather cool, dry elsewhere with some good spells of sunshine. Northern Isles somewhat brighter than of late.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Dry on Saturday, best of the sunshine in the northwest. Staying largely dry and warm with some brightness on Sunday and Monday, perhaps some rain in the far northwest.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.